Mayor Jacobs Talks About Dog Parks, CAC, and More

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.— During his Weekly Update, which will post around 1 p.m. today, Knox County Mayor Glenn Jacobs talks about opening a dog park at New Harvest Park, the Knoxville-Knox County CAC Office on Aging’s Grandparents as Parents program, and more.

This week Mayor Jacobs and Randy Boyd cut the ribbon on the second of five planned dog parks in Knox County.

“Many thanks to the Boyd Family Foundation which donated $250,000 to the County and the City to help build ten new dog parks,” says Mayor Jacobs. “And to our amazing crews at Parks and Recreation.”

Mayor Jacobs also notes that the Knoxville-Knox County CAC Office on Aging’s Grandparents as Parents program just released the third edition of the Grandparents as Parents Guidebook. This is a resource for grandparents and relatives raising a family member’s child and is free for caregivers and service providers. Copies are available online and at any of our Knox County Senior Centers.

Please note that Powell Station Park will be closed Tuesday, June 4 through Thursday, June 6, for sewer work.
