Under Tennessee law, judges may only excuse citizens from jury duty if they have a disqualifying undue or extreme hardship as outlined in TCA 22-1-103. If you believe you qualify for excusal due to an undue or extreme hardship under the law, please select the legal basis below and provide sufficient information to explain your hardship in the narrative box.:

- The juror has a mental or physical condition that causes that person to be incapable of performing jury service. The juror or juror's representative must provide documentation from a physician licensed to practice medicine verifying the mental or physical condition renders the person unfit for jury service;
- be required to abandon a person under such juror's personal care or supervision due to the impossibility of obtaining an appropriate substitute caregiver during the period of participation in the jury pool or on the jury;
- incur costs that would have a substantial adverse impact on the payment of the juror's necessary daily living expenses or on those for whom such juror provides the principal means of support;
- suffer physical hardship that would result in illness or disease; or
- be deprived of compensation due to the fact that the prospective juror works out-of-state and the out-of-state employer is unwilling to compensate the juror, or that the prospective juror is employed by an employer who is not required to compensate jurors and declines to do so voluntarily. An undue or extreme physical or financial hardship does not exist solely based on the fact that a juror will be required to be absent from the juror's place of employment.

I, the undersigned prospective juror, do hereby request to be excused from jury service for the following reason(s): _____
